FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

TapRoot Systems attends Microsoft® Windows Mobile® 2007 Partner Showcase

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK (January, 16th 2007) – TapRoot Systems Inc., a leading provider of embedded software solutions and reference platforms for Smartphones, will be attending the Microsoft® Windows Mobile® Partner Showcase on Tuesday, January 16th, 2007 at The Westin in Bellevue, Washington. The partner showcase is part of the bigger two-day, 2007 Windows Mobile Partner Summit sponsored by Microsoft® for their OEM, Mobile Operator and Gold Certified Mobile Solutions partners.

TapRoot Systems will be showcasing their complete portfolio of wireless LAN software services and products which include wireless LAN device drivers, advanced testing services, and cutting-edge, enterprise class security supplicants. TapRoot solutions support major mobile operating systems like Microsoft® Windows Mobile®, Symbian OS™ and Linux® Mobile.

“Being part of the Microsoft Windows Mobile Partner showcase gives us the opportunity to show the expertise and advanced knowledge we have in Wi-Fi solution development for our customers on Windows Mobile®” said Justin Helmig, Director of Product Management. “Microsoft is one our key strategic partners and is crucial to our continued success on this platform.”

According to a recent report done by the NPD Group, the current US smartphone market has entered a significant growth spurt. October 2006 sales soared 230% from January of 2006, rising from 216,000 units to nearly 715,000. On a quarterly basis in 2006, smartphone sales have risen more than 4% to more than 6% of new phones sold in Q4 2006.
